Dear Parents and Guardians of Seniors:

For years, it has been the dream of many at our school – staff and students alike – to reinitiate marine biology trips to Mexico. After ten years, we understand that this is a new and intimidating adventure, so we will be holding a meeting with parents in October (exact date TBD - look at www.aldocs.org calendar). Your input and buy-in are very important to us, so if this date doesn't work we will gladly set up an individual meeting.

Trip Essentials:

Who: The entire senior class

What: A 5-day trip to explore the marine biology and foreign culture of the Gulf of California

When: March 3rd – March 8th, 2020

Where: San Carlos, Sonora, a town on the coast of the Gulf of California

Why: To gain perspective on how human life can be lived in myriad ways and to explore a rich and unfamiliar ecosystem.

Meeting Particulars:

Avery will be showing a PowerPoint presentation that will address security, transportation, potential activities, lodging, and curriculum. There will be time for a question and answer session after this presentation with senior teachers. There is no obligation to stay for the entire meeting, but please voice your excitement and concerns!

Contact: Feel free to email me directly at ajepsonbrowne@aldocs.org if the meeting time won't work for you, or if you have preliminary questions.

Thank you for helping us do the hard work of creating an experience that is safe and deeply educational.
